

PeaceHealth Clinically Integrated Network

A Vision for Value-Based Care

About CIN

A clinically integrated network (CIN) is a group of providers, hospitals and clinics that work together to provide high-quality care and reduce unnecessary costs to specific populations within defined communities.

A CIN uses clinical governance and quality metrics to create a unified regional healthcare delivery system that demonstrates value while enhancing patient care and experience.

Value-Based Care Vision

- Growing differently to provide convenient, accessible and high-quality care.
- Thinking differently to adopt a wellness-first, population health mindset.
- Providing a different patient experience through digital technologies and data insights.
- Enabling safe, seamless and highly personalized experiences.

Shared Savings Information

Of the shared savings earned by the CIN in calendar year 2022, 36% was reserved for operational expenses and to invest in:

- Care infrastructure
- Redesigning care processes
- Other resources necessary to improve outcomes and reduce total cost of care

The remaining 64% was distributed to our participating provider groups according to the PeaceHealth CIN PY2022 Shared Savings Distribution Policy.

Community Connect

Electronic Health Record (EHR) and practice management systems are a “must-have” for medical practices to effectively deliver day-to-day patient care, promote optimal health maintenance practices and fulfill required regulatory reporting.

- Community Connect is an extension of the EHR system (and associated support required) that PeaceHealth hospitals and clinics have been effectively using for nearly 10 years.
- The independent practice EHR is geared toward independent and small-group medical practices that might find the acquisition of a similarly comprehensive system out of reach, logistically and/or financially.

Community Connect:

- Supports start-to-finish operational processes supporting patient care — from scheduling and clinical documentation to revenue cycle management and reporting.
- Keeps your office's patient records safe and secure.
- Stays current on proven advances in technology and regulatory requirements.
- Gives patients tools and access to view their records and interact with their provider.
- Places best-practice clinical decision support tools at your fingertips.

Why build or buy your own when you can affordably access a comprehensive system and all associated support from a trusted source in your community?
